

Round Table

Political Correctness

Your thoughts on political correctness and why it is important to adhere to political correctness when writing texts?

Do you think language is changing today? Do you think these transformations are making our language more complex or simpler? What trends have you noticed?

How can the use of gender-neutral language contribute to a more equitable and justice-oriented society?

What is the role of education and media in promoting gender equality and gender-neutral language?

Do you believe that obligatory political correctness restricts freedom of speech and art?

How do you deal with the conflict between wanting to be politically correct and sincerity in your writing?

Thank you!!!

